Introduction

When you use our website, you are agreeing to follow these rules (Terms of Use).

What you need to know

The Stronger Together Foundation expects you to know that:

- We own and reserve the rights to the information and content (material) on our website, unless stated differently.
- We expect you to be safe whilst using our website.
- We do our best to keep our website up to date, but we cannot promise that it always will be.
- If the website, or any information on our website becomes unavailable, we are not responsible for any loss that happens as a result.
- The information on our website should not replace the opinion of a medical professional if you need health or medical advice.
- The Stronger Together Foundation must be honest with the information it shares and works to keep people safe when using our website.
- The rules of using this website help to protect the Stronger Together Foundation, as well as our staff, community and people that are linked to the Stronger Together Foundation with any legal responsibility.
- The Stronger Together Foundation can stop you using our website or take legal action against you if you do not follow these rules.
- These rules apply from the date they were first written on our website and must be followed until the Stronger Together Foundation chooses to change or update them.
- The Stronger Together Foundation can transfer who owns the material on this website without telling you.

When using our website, you can:

- Look at the information on the website.
- Download or print information from the website.
- Use the information on the Stronger Together Foundation's website for your own personal use.
- Share the information from this website only when you have the Stronger Together Foundation's permission.

When using our website, you must not:

- Use information on our website without giving full credit to the Stronger Together Foundation or republish it as your own or another organisation's information (in hard copy or on another website).
- Sell, rent or sub-license anything from this website.
- Use, copy or take advantage of anything on this website for a commercial purpose (e.g. try to make any money or take any credit for anything on the Stronger Together Foundation's website).
- Attempt to edit or change anything on the Stronger Together Foundation including anything that could be against the law or unethical, or cause the website to be hacked in any way (such as spyware, computer viruses, Trojan horses, worms, keystroke loggers, rootkits or other malicious computer software).
- Collect data from the Stronger Together Foundation's website without our written permission.
- Send out communications that were not agreed to.
- Attempt to add anything to the Stronger Together Foundation's website that belongs to someone else.
- Cause someone else to take legal action against yourself or the Stronger Together Foundation.
- Advertise or market anything without the Stronger Together Foundation's written permission.
